San Diego Tuna Fishing Industry 'On the Way Out' As Japanese Tuna Selling at Cut-Throat Prices

SAN DIEGO.—This port's big tuna fleet is dying like a speared shark.

The shaft-mortally buried unless the government acts—was thrust by the Japanese in a 10-year price battle.

Operators of 125 tuna clippers out of San Diego are about to be gobbled up by competition they can't hope to meet.

"The industry is done here in San Diego," declared Dr. Wilbert Chapman, director of research of the American Tunaboat Ass'n.

"We're liquidating our business," he added.

Chapman noted the bulk of the nation's tuna fleet is based here and in San Pedro, near Los Angeles.

"All we're trying to do is get rid of our boats and get out of the business with what we can get out of it," he said.

"We don't expect a thing out of Washington. If we haven't been able to persuade them in 10 years, we can't do it now."

Chapman said he expects 20 to 25 of the tuna boats will end on the auction block, bringing a fraction of their cost.

Boat owners with enough capital, he said, probably will leave the country and pick up Mexican and Japanese crewmen in Ensenada, Mexico, or Portuguese fishermen in Panama.

He estimated the situation has left 1,500 fishermen on the beach.

"What hurts our business is the implacable application of the free trade policy by the U.S. government," Chapman said. "The government will not undertake any modification of this rule. Anything we propose is turned down."

Reduced to basics, the simple fact is the Japanese are catching and selling fish below the break-even point of U.S. boat owners.

Japanese Textile Firms Suspend Shipments Following Protest Here

OTTAWA.—Shipment to Canada by Japanese exporters of a wide range of finished, low-cost textiles has been suspended temporarily at the request of the Canadian Government.

The suspension was announced June 19 by an official in the Japanese embassy and confirmed by Finance Minister Fleming's office.

It is understood the goods affected include blouses, sport shirts, coats and slacks of spun rayon, knitted outer clothing of spun rayon, shirts and skirts, and knitted underwear and other undergarments.

Mr. Fleming made strong representations to Japanese Ambassador Toru Hagiwara that the Canadian industry producing finished textile products is being seriously harmed by an abnormal flow of imports from Japan.

The minister's office said the Japanese Government has suspended temporarily the issuing of export licenses to Japanese exporters of finished textile products.

A finance official said no new export licenses will be issued by Japan. However, the department did not know the quantity of goods which would move into Canada under licenses granted before the suspension became effective. The Japanese action was not retroactive.

The official said the Canadian Government anticipated such a move because the Japanese do not want to impair their trade relations with Canada.

The Government hoped that Japanese authorities would work out a more orderly system for marketing finished textiles in Canada, one that would not cause serious damage to the Canadian industry.

Mr. Fleming negotiated with Japanese officials in Ottawa for about two weeks as a result of protests by Canadian manufacturers. He made strong representations that the Japanese voluntary quota system be extended to a temporary suspension of finished textile exports, pending action to make the quota system more effective.

Second Financial Offer To Aid JC History Project

Persons residing in Toronto involved with the disposition of the remaining fund from the former Steveston Japanese-Language School decided the fund of $390.37 be donated to the National Japanese Canadian Citizens' Association towards assisting financially, the writing of a history of Japanese Canadians.

At a meeting held June 20th at the home of Mr. Yoshio Kanda, a former member of the Parent-School Association of the Steveston Language school during pre-war years now residing in Toronto, the decision, made earlier at Winnipeg in 1946 before the sum was transferred to Toronto, to donate the fund to a worthy project which would be of common good for Japanese Canadians, such as the history by National JCCA, was unanimously passed and accepted by attending members.

The donating of the fund to the history project is believed the most benefiting of projects currently in existence. However, members felt that it be made clear that it was not the final decision pending suggestions and opinions of others also involved who were not able to attend. Therefore, a request that word from others be received within two weeks' time has been expressed and should be sent to: Mr. C. Furukawa, 66 Kennedy Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

If this decision is finalized, it would mean the second offer from a JC organization to aid the history project; the first from Saisei-Kai Incorporated, who announced its intention of a $500.00 donation as soon as the research and writing by National JCCA was underway. Ken Adachi, currently in Europe, will begin work immediately upon his return this September, it was announced earlier.

Worried Japanese Halt All Shipping to South Korea

TOKYO.—Japanese shipping companies have suspended all services to South Korea, and the government has warned fishing craft in Korean waters to be on their guard against seizure by South Korean patrol craft.

These moves followed announcement that the South Korean diplomatic mission in Tokyo had suspended processing of export and import permits between Japan and South Korea. This action amounted to a complete halt in trade between the two countries.

The developments resulted from an agreement between the Red Cross Societies of Japan and Communist North Korea, meeting in Geneva, for repatriation to the north of Koreans here who wish to go. The agreement brought relations between Japan and South Korea to a new crisis.

South Koreans Angered

In view of the South Korean government's anger over the repatriation plans, Japanese fishing companies were warned by Kunio Miura, minister of agriculture and forestry, that South Korean patrol craft might be more active than usual in intercepting boats near the controversial sea boundary proclaimed by the Seoul government up to 60 miles off the South Korean coast.

Tokyo has been making efforts to obtain the release of about 160 Japanese fishermen detained in Pusan, South Korea, on charges of violating the Korean fishing preserve.

Foreign Minister Aiichiro Fujiyama announced that the International Red Cross, the same organization that has been asked to oversee the repatriation to North Korea, has been requested to intervene with the Seoul government on behalf of the detained fishermen.

Meanwhile, reports from Osaka said that 22 Japanese shipping companies operating out of that major Japanese port in the Korea trade had suspended service to South Korea. All sailings scheduled where cancelled.

Japanese authorities were preparing to set up facilities for Koreans desiring to go to North Korea. Intending repatriates will be asked to register at local government offices, and eventually will be transported in groups at Niigata, a northern port, for passage in vessels to be supplied by North Korea.

The role of the International Red Cross Committee, composed of neutral Swiss, is doubtful in view of reports from Geneva that the Swiss body wants the approval of South Korea as well as North Korea and Japan before participating in the repatriation.

Many Old Wive's Tales Related in First English Account of Midwifery Amongst Japanese Populace

TOKYO.—Neither the professional nor the lay attitude toward birth as a natural process has changed much through the centuries in Japan, for even in institutions today anesthesia is used in less than five per cent of the cases.

But a first and lasting impression after reading "The Great Pulse," a study of Japanese midwifery and obstetrics through the ages, is: Every mother can consider herself lucky to be living in the 20th century.

Some of the "old wives' tales" in "The Great Pulse" make those of today pale by comparison.

The now widely discussed "new" method of thought-controlled, pain-free birth is new only in its supervised psychological indoctrination. Back in the early 17th century a doctor rejected a whole list of wonderful and "infallible panaceas," because if the patient has self-control and is able to help herself, even common medicines are not required."

Although the Japanese have never coddled the maternity patient nor encouraged medication during labor, at least one large Tokyo maternity hospital today has a "birth-without-pain" program of the kind popular in other countries.

This book by Mary W. Standlee presents for the first time in English a full account of a fascinating and little-known aspect of life in Japan, and a record of medical practice. The author lived in Japan for three years and was aided by Japanese doctors in compiling "The Great Pulse."

Some of the "old wives' tales" still prevail in modern Japan, but others have been exposed to modern medical knowledge and suffered.

Since the Japanese have long been a seafaring people and fish forms a regular part of their diet, many taboos have grown up around this item of food, such as the idea that a hairy child or one with six fingers will be born if crab is eaten during pregnancy.

Others noted by Mrs. Standlee include:

"Women in Tottori Prefecture eat octopus legs to insure curly hair for their offspring. In other places pouring boiling water on earthworm is considered an easy way to bring about curly-haired children."

"Another belief provides that a pregnant woman who harms a crab will bear a child with its characteristics, possibly an oblique forewarning of a child with an ugly disposition."

"Clams eaten during the period of gestation will produce tongue-exhibiting children, a naughty habit in any race, but this can probably be remedied by partaking freely of sparrow and pear, both of which produce short tongues."

"In general, oily, sour, or bitter foods are supposed to produce a child with redhair, not at all desirable among the naturally black-haired Japanese."

Other statistics in the book, which is well illustrated and accompanied by graphs, reveal that

Lorraine Among Award Winners in Spelling Bee

MONTREAL.—Amongst twelve Montreal high school girls awarded certificates and prizes by the Montreal Chapter of the National Office Management Association last week was Miss Lorraine Suga of Laval-des-Rapides, Montreal.

The girls had participated in the association's annual International Spelling contest for high school students.

Most of the students were from commercial courses, and the words used in the contest were those of common business usage.

Prior to the test, the students, believed to number about 500 pupils of Montreal and districts, were given 600 words to study, from which 200 were chosen for the contest. Students who received a perfect score of 200, were eligible for awards.

R. G. Grimes, past president of the Montreal Chapter was guest speaker and made the presentations earlier this month in the Queen's Hotel.

【東京發】「新地中海」といわれるセントローレンス水路の開通式は二十六日、エリザベス英女王、アイゼンハワー米大統領が出席して行われる。五大湖とセントローレンス川を結ぶ同水路の開通によって、デトロイトやシカゴなど五大湖の工業都市や穀物集散地の穀物鐵鑛石、自動車、機械、雜貨を中心とする貨物輸送の重點が、鐵道から船に切替えられ、船による輸送量の增加が期待されている。

▲このため飯野海運は、去る三月からニューヨーク定期航路をこの水路の入口であるカナダのモントリオールまで延長し、月一航海の配船をはじめている。荷動きが活發で豫想以上に積荷があるので、同社の了解を得た三井船舶も、八月から氷結期に入る十月末までに二航海の配船を決めた。三井の場合は來年四月の解氷期から月一航海となるが、日本郵船も來春からの配船を希望している。

▲飯野海運は鐵島丸など十八ノット級の高速船を配船しているが、これまでの實績は、日本からモントルオールなどカナダ向けの積荷は陶器、合板、オモチャが中心で、一隻で三、四千トンに上っている。一方モントリオールから日本向けの積荷は石綿が大部分で一千二百トンに達している。ニューヨーク航路が過當競爭を防ぐために行っている雜貨の積荷制限は一隻當り四千五百トンだが、往路はカナダ向けの雜貨を中心にすれば、北米向けの雜貨は少なくてすむので、魅力のある新航路となっている。

夏目ははげしく云つた。たつた今會つて來た寺島洋三の父親としての悲しみがまだ胸の底によどんでいてその言葉を押し出したようだつた。

「何がうそなの？」

「君がいつか云つていた寺島氏への復しゅうのために、あれを送りつけたんじゃないか」

「やめましょうそんな話。あたしあの時、ホテルであなたのあとを追いかけたのよ。あたしはあなたを試したかつたの。新聞記者のあなたが期待していたようなことが、ロスタンさんとあたしの間に起つた時、あなたが冷い眼で平氣で見ていられるかどうか、それを知りたかつたの」

「僕は君たちのスキャンダルを期待して行つたんじゃない。そんなこと信じたくないから行つたんだ」

今日はじゅん子を最初に見た瞬間から、夏目の氣持は妙に平衡を欠いていた。

「君は大体芝居氣が多すぎる、なぜもつと素直になれないんだ」

夏目はほとんど無意識にじゅん子の腕をつかみ、前後にゆすぶつた。

じゅん子は微笑を消したと思うと、上体の力を抜いて崩れて來た。

その瞬間、深夜の靜岡の街を走り去つたじゅん子の絶叫が、突然夏目の耳の奥によみがえつた。

夏目は亂暴にじゅん子を抱き寄せた。

「君はお父さんと和解しなきやいけない」

耳もとへささやくと、じゅん子は電擊を受けたように首を立てなおし鋭く夏目を見すえた。

「僕は今寺島氏と會つて來た、君のお母さんとの間のことを殘らず聞いたんだ」

が、その言葉を終りまで云う前に、夏目は胸を突かれてよろめいた。

「歸つてちょうだい！」

そう叫んだじゅん子の顔はたちまち彩られ、からだは屈辱に耐えられないようにふるえていた。

『ゴイター』を患つて（三）

チャザム 工藤藤子

一九五八年の夏は、このようにして寝たり起きたりの日々でした。でも七、八兩月はコックだけはして、日毎に悪くなるらしい自分の容貌を見つめ、一人公園に行き心静かに祈つたり、子供らの遊びを無心に眺める日々を繰り返しました。八月末になると、毎日眠り藥二つを飲まないと眠れぬようになつたので、思い切つて他のドクターにかかり九月一日には再度入院しました。三名のドクターが相談の結果、ロンドン市のヴィクトリア病院のガンとゴイターの専門醫に見て貰うことになり、看護婦のエミー藤井さんに連れられて行きました。

ドクターが最初に私に尋ねたことは『何か心配したことはなかつたか？』私はハッとして思い當りました。その時から二年前、末の子供が十二歳のとき毎晩のように仲間と出歩き、その子の歸宅が晩の九時から十分間遅れても不安を感じ、心臓が早や鐘をつくように高鳴つたことが幾度もありました。それだのに子供の方は『僕は何も悪いことはしていないよ、ドント・ウォリー』とけろりとしていました。しかし私は『清く正しくするように守らせたまえ』と祈り、祈り足りない自身を責めていました。その上主人は突然の失業で、それも私の心配の種だつたのです。ドクターは、私はゴイターになるタイプの女ではないのに、原因は取越苦勢の心配からだと申されるのでした。子供からは『ママは僕等に、ゴイターにならぬように昆布やノリや海の魚を食べなさい、と言つてるのに自分でゴイターになつたのね』とひやかされる始末でした。

自主規制に除外 日本が強く要求

【オタワ發】カナダ政府は國內業者の強い反對に應じ、日本センイ輸出を抑制してもらいたいと要請したので日本側は先週よりセンイ品のカナダ向け輸出を當分停止することになつたが、日本側としてはある製品は輸出規制のなかに加えられるべきものでないとカナダ側に、それらを自主規制から除外するよう強く交渉すべく意向で、カナダ側も日加貿易を圓滑に伸張さすことに深い關心を示し、日本側と除外品目について協議するもようである。日本がセンイ品の對加輸出停止を餘儀なくされたことについても、日本はかかる狀態がながびけば日本はカナダから小麥コークスおよびユレニアム等を購入するドルが不足して、カナダも結局損をすることになるとの見解を示している。日本が自主規制から除外されるべき商品としてあげているものはカトンドレス、毛織物、スフ靴下などで、カナダは日本からはほんの僅かを輸入し、大量は外國から求めているので、これらもクオーター中にふくめるのは妥當でないとしているわけである。

輸出規制を カナダ申入れ

ブル駐日カナダ大使は先週末藤山外相を訪問、日本センイ品のカナダ向け輸出規制について善處するよう重ねて申入れた。ブル大使は最近日本センイ品の對加輸出が急增し、カナダ業者を壓迫していることを强調、なんとかして買いたいというのに對し、藤山外相は「日本商品の輸出がなお業者に與えている影響の實狀をよく調査した上で善處する」と約束し、カナダ政府が對日關稅引上げなどの措置をとるまえに日本政府と協議してほしい旨要望した。

一時的な氣休め

日本品壓迫は間違いと社說

日本はカナダが日本から買う量よりも、ぐんと多く買つている事實を考慮にいれれば、日本がカナダ政府の要請を容れて、輸出停止を行つたことは最も有難いことといわねばなるまい、とト市朝刊紙は大要次の社說をかかげている。

△カナダ消費者は金屬性洋食器とセンイ品は價格と品質がよいから買うことを示している。これらの商品の一時輸入を止めれば國內業者は儲かるかも知れないがそれはしばらくの間のことで結局害あつて利ないことに終るであろう。

△日本はカナダのベスト・カストマーであるが、カナダは日本から年々少量しか買わないでいる。ドル不足で日本はカナダから買うことができず、よそから必要品を求めることになろう。日本は廣い中共市場を失いカナダからは壓迫を加えられて、あいだにはさまつてキユウキユウいわされる危機にある。

▲カナダの有力實業家が述べた通り、もつと日本品を買つてやらなければ、日本はどこかに市場を求めるべく貿易攻勢を餘儀なくされるであろうとの說は尤もである。

大シケが急に襲つて 漁者四十二名を失う

△貧しい漁業でその日暮しのニユー・ブランズウイック漁者にとつて珍しく惠まれたサモン豐漁で、一日一人當り二百弗の水揚げにはくほくという當り年。このチャンスを逃してはならないと約五十隻の漁船が去る金曜、プリンス・エドワード島とニユー・ブランズウイック間の海峽ノーサンバランドで就漁中に大シケが襲い、溺死者十二名、行方不明三十餘名という大慘事となつた。

△當日の天氣豫報は風速十五マイルとのことで、漁船はいつせいに出漁したあと大暴風の危險ありとの豫報があつたときは、すでにサモン滿載の漁船は無電裝置もなく、いずれも豐漁に浮かれて歸港中であつた。突如として高さ六十呎の大波となり、ボートは次々と沈沒、波にさらわれて漁者は行方不明となり、岸に打ちあげられたボートは大破損、死体十二はやつとみつけたが、殘餘の三十餘名はいまなお行方不明である。

英會話を教える

五輪に備え銀座の店主店員に

【東京發】銀座を名實ともに東京の代表的商店街に育てようと、いま銀座通連合會の手で店主、店員專門の英語學校新設計畫がすすめられている。五年後の東京オリンピック大會には銀座の店を『英語話せます』のマークで埋め大々的にアピールしようというわけで、さらに銀座案內所開設、若い女性によるガイド・パトロールなど、これまで繁華街のチャンピオンとすまし込んでいた銀座も新体制に急ピッチの形。

△銀座は駐車難と地下鐵新線の開通で池袋、新宿、澁谷に大分お客を吸いあげられているといわれ、有力店二百八十餘が加盟する銀座最大の商店會、銀座通連合會ではかねてから新しい新興策をねつていたが、オリンピック大會の東京招致決定と同時に積極的なピー・アールに乘り出すことになつたもの。

▲銀座英語學校は五年後の大會に來日する外人客へのサービスが十分できるようにと、約三千人の店主と店員を生徒に英會話を教授、八月には第一期を開校して二カ月で本業させ、優秀卒業生には前記のマークが贈られる。同連合會は「五年後には全店をこのマークで埋めたい」と張切つており總會で銀座振興委員會を設置、學校の場所、講師を早急に決める。

△一方、外人觀光客のサービスにかたよつてカンジンの日本人に不評を招く——ということから、從來の名所番附式なガイド・パンフレットをやめ歌舞伎座、銀座四丁目などの中心地に銀座案內所を設け、集會、宴會、食事の細かな相談にも應じ、街頭には「銀座ガイド・パトロール」のタスキをかけた女性二、三人を巡遊させる。店主、店員の教養向上については各デパートにも協力を求め、全店あげて銀座振興運動に乘り出す。

Small and Largemouth Bass Will Strike Any Bait Is Tip for Ontario Fishermen for July 1st Opening

The opening of the black bass fishing season in Ontario July 1 (with some exceptions) will find thousands of anglers airing the view: "At last, the real angling has begun!" They feel that there just isn't anything that quite compares with "the battle of the bronze-backs", matching wits and skill against the black bass which roam Ontario waters from the province's east and west boundaries and from the Great Lakes in the south to as far north as Lake Nipigon and beyond.

The open season is from Dominion Day, July 1, to October 15, both dates inclusive, with these exceptions:

(1) St. Clair River, Lake St. Clair and Detroit River: June 25th to December 15th.

(2) Lake Erie and Niagara River between Lake Erie and Niagara Falls: July 1 to December 15th.

(3) St. Lawrence River west of the dam at the Robert H. Saunders Generating Station in Stormont County: June 16th to October 15th.

(4) Boundary waters (other than Lake Superior) between Thunder Bay District and Minnesota, and Kenora and Rainy River Districts: June 10th to December 15th.

The limit of catch is six in one day.

There are two types of black bass, the largemouth (Micropterus salmoides) and the smallmouth (Micropteus dolomieu). Generally, the largemouth variety is found in the more southern waters, although there are some exceptions. The smallmouth probably is found in more lakes and rivers of the province than in any other variety of game fish.

The largemouth runs a little larger than the smallmouth. A five-pound fish of either species is something to boast about. The summer seldom passes without a seven or eight-pound largemouth being landed but the average runs around 1½ to 2½ pounds. On one occasion, a 14-pound 12-ounce largemouth was caught in Ontario.

The charm of the black bass fishery from the angling standpoint is the do-or-die determination of this relatively small fish. It has been claimed with reason that, ounce for ounce and pound for pound, the smallmouth bass is the gamest fish in any waters.

There's little finesse to bass fishing, for the fish will strike when in the mood at anything thrown at them. Crayfish, frogs, worms, minnows are among the favorite live baits, but with equal aplomb they'll hit streamer flies (sometimes dry flies), spinning baits of every size and description, plugs, spinners, spoons. They may be caught fly-fishing, spinning, bait casting, trolling or by the small boy dangling a worm on a bent pin.

Usually, there's no question about it when a bass strikes, for both types hit with utmost enthusiasm and there's no nibbling approach. The smallmouth, particularly, goes in for aerial performances when hooked, frequently jumping as high as three or four feet out of the water, shaking its head to rid itself of the encumbrance, and not infrequently tossing the bait right back at the angler who offered it.

Spawning habits of both species are similar. The bass chooses a nesting site which is cleared of silt by the sweeping action of the male fish. The eggs and young are guarded with the utmost precaution for a time and then abandoned, leaving the young to fend for themselves.

During the period in which the male is guarding the nest, he is very pugnacious and will strike at anything which he believes may imperil his charges. Hence, many adult male bass are caught by fishermen in search of other species and, in many cases, the result is the loss of thousands of young fish.

To the non-expert, it is rather difficult to distinguish the two species of black bass. The largemouth has a larger mouth (hence the name) which extends beyond the eye. The spiny dorsal fin is higher and the spines are not as uniform in length. Color means little; the smallmouth may be rather pale green in Lake Erie and range to dark brown in inland lakes. The largemouth is basically dark green on the back, but again there may be lighter shades, depending on environment.

No group of fishermen is unanimous about the most popular game fish, but most bass fishermen agree that the smallmouth is the most popular fish to the average Ontario sportsman because of its superb fighting qualities, its preference for shallow water, and its readiness to strike at any bait or lure throughout the summer months.

Both species of black bass are excellent fish to eat. Most are simply skinned, using a sharp knife, and filletted, the fillets fried in deep fat after being coated with flour, cracker or bread crumbs. With hunger as a sauce the confirmed bass fisherman will claim that there's no finer dish anywhere.

Wive's Tales

in 1955, reported abortions totaled 1,170,000 (M), with an estimated 2,000,000 (F) actually supposed to have been performed. Thus abortions exceeded Japan's births for that year.

The law in Japan provides for abortion when "pregnancy or delivery might markedly injure the health of the mother because of her physical or financial conditions. Abortion and infanticide is more open in Oriental than in Occidental countries, and in Japan the practice of each has contributed much to the wealth of material on this subject.

Today, although information on birth control is freely available in Japan and contraceptives are easily obtainable and openly purchaseable, the people as a whole are indifferent to be population control program. Despite this, and the fact that Japanese men discourage the use of contraceptives, the birth rate is levelling off.

"The Great Pulse" was published by the Charles E. Tuttle Co. and sells for $4.50 (1,300 yen in Japan).

Japanese Paintings and Haiku

Japanese art develops through increasing simplification. In Haiku poetry everything that can be, is omitted; what remains is an irreducible simplification. The black-ink painting of mountains and streams is also an art of simplification. Birds, trees, rocks, are described in simple brush strokes of black ink. Other examples are the pantomime of No and Kabuki plays, which are performed before a colorless screen.

At the end of this simplification, the Japanese finds his conclusion. It is not a conclusion reached after observation and analysis, but a conclusion which intuition reaches through simplification. The Japanese finds the nature of a problem when everything which can be excluded is excluded. What results is rather a symbol than a description. It is rather a suggestion than an explicit demonstration. The reason that short stories have been dominant among Japanese naturalistic writers lies also in this pattern of simplification. . . .

Japanese films also have this tendency toward simplicity. The most artistic movies, as opposed to long and tedious melodramas, are composed by simplification. The movies directed by Ozu, Yamanaka, and Itami, are concise and neat. The artistic value of a Japanese movie comes out only when it has been simplified like Haiku poetry. The montage theory of the Soviet Union has influenced Japanese movie technique. However, the montage in Japanese movies is used as are the Haiku descriptions of nature, so that it is not intellectual, ideological, or dramatic. It becomes an extension of the simplification technique of the traditional arts.

For instance, the heroine's new hope for her life is symbolized by the rising sun behind a factory and the sound of a siren heard in the morning fog ("The Life of a Woman" by Fumio Kamei). The suffering of life is suggested by a sooty oil-lamp, and hope is symbolized by the morning school ground where boys are in gymnastics class ("The Only Son" by Ozu). There again we find the delicate transfer of the motif to the metaphor of the natural scene, as in traditional poetry.

The series of documentary films directed by Fumio Kamei ("Shanghai," "Nanking," and "Kobayashi Issa") is representative in this connection, and we can regard them as the most magnificent reconstruction of Haiku which describe human affairs only through the description of natural scenes.

They are beautiful montages of images and sounds, and at the same time inherit the style of Haiku description. The misery of war is symbolized by butterflies and flowers, and the poverty of a Japanese village is indicated by frosted fields and an old warehouse. Society is thus observed only through nature, and the director's thinking about society is symbolically simplified by natural scenes. — From "Japanese Popular Culture," edited and translated by Hidetoshi Kato, Charles E. Tuttle Company, Rutland, Vt. and Tokyo, Japan, 1959.

Rock 'n' Roll
Sparkletones: More Than a Name

By CAROL TERADA

Now that school is over for yearly holidays, relax awhile and let me tell you of four fabulous guys collectively known as Joe Bennett and the Sparkletones.

Joe Bennett, who hales from South Carolina as are the others in the group, is every girl's dream—the other three, Gene Brown, Jimmy Denton and Wayne Arthur are also living dolls.

Though their first hit "Black Slacks" became a top seller and which rocketed them to nationwide fame, the boys much-preferred playing and cutting "Penny Loafers and Bobby Sox" out of their three years of performing and the cutting of seven discs.

The Sparkletones have appeared many times on Dick Clark's TV show and also have guested Ed Sullivan's Sunday night show. The longest tour the group has ever made lasted 42 nights loving every minute of it since they all are travel bugs. Buses are frequently used on these tours but if they plan to stay in one place for a week or so they travel via their black limosine which has their names printed on it.

Their loves include dancing and bowling but they don't get a chance to do much of either since they are constantly booked to appear in U.S. and Canada and this doesn't leave them much time for going steady although none of them do as yet. But when they are in their home town the boys make it a point to date their favorite gals.

Most teenagers know this group as a rock and roll quartet, however, Joe claims that they prefer the Latin-type music to what they are most commonly requested to play. Bo Didley, who is currently in town for an extended engagement, the Everly Brothers, and the late and great Buddy Holly and the Crickets are just terrific heading their list of greats.

The boys live within a 15-mile radius of each other back in S. Carolina and commute to each other's homes easily as they all own cars. They fancy sports cars —especially the M.G.'s.

To meet and talk to this group and to see them on stage for a 40-minute set are as two different seasons. They play like no one else ever played. The time this writer caught their act the boys appeared wearing black tapered pants, white bucks, gold shirts of silk material and to accent the shirts and pants wore Kelly-green cumberbands.

Mrs. Bennet, Joe's mother has a terrific knack for ideas on stage outfits as she designs the stage clothes they wear for public engagements.

Where they learned to keep time with each other no one knows except the boys. Their shows aren't wild as most rock 'n' rollers believe; it's more on the moving side than this just-noise sounds which crop up occassionally on the top ten.

Manager Claude Bennett (no relation to Joe Bennett) tells me the boys, in personal life, are down to earth. Fans can believe this as during the interview each fella knew, or seemed to give the impression, that they weren't any better than anyone else in this world. Their personalities are tops and you can bet the parents of these boys are justly proud.

They currently have a new disc which will be released soon on the Paris label. Go out and buy it when it is released as you can be sure you'll be getting your money's worth.

One last point: When appearing here, they needed a drummer for accompanyment, so a real sweet guy by the name of Rick played with them. He really did a fabulous job on the drums for which they were grateful.

That's all for now . . . dig you cats later.

ForEverly yours.

British Ex-POW Seeks Two Japanese Guards

TOKYO. — During the 1942 Thai campaign the Japanese took a British army mechanic prisoner. His name: R. A. Ordnance Corpsman Michael Collings, now a London taxi cab driver.

In charge of the prison camp kitchens at the Siam Railway works, Kingsia, Thailand was Pfc. Kemi Naggasam (possibly Nagashima). At great personal danger Private Naggasam shared his meager cigarette and biscuit rations with mechanic Collings for six months.

In June 1943 Collings was moved to another camp at Indarto, Thailand and received similar kindness from Pvt. 2. C. Kuchi (possibly Kikuchi).

Collings has never forgotten these unexpected acts of friendship amidst the vicious Japanese-British fighting. It's been 16 years since, but the London cabby is still trying to locate ex-soldiers Naggasam and Kuchi through the mails.

Now Collings, who owns his own cab but not the income to come half way around the world to look up Naggasam and Kuchi personally has a personal messenger in Japan.

He is veteran author and political correspondent George Bilainkin. Englishman Bilainkin is known particularly to the Japanese for the special affidavit he signed appealing for the life of the late Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu during the War Crimes Tribunal.

When Collins heard that Bilainkin was coming to Japan, he asked him to press on personally with the search for the two. Bilainkin is here to work on his latest political diary, "Asia Calling".
